Trade and Commerce of Milwaukee.

On the first of January we shall publish a commerce and general business of Milwaukea, for the year just closing, embracing comparative statistics of our grain trade for fifteen years, carefully compiled from official exports of flour and grain from all the ports in Wisconsin during the past season of navigation. It will also be printed in pamphlet form for subscribers, and any firm taking ten copies, or more, can have their card circulate, and as we are desirous that the pects of rain and the price of skates. extent of the trade of our city should be known abroad, we shall furnish the pamph. let to subscribers at a very moderate cost. Orders may be left at the Counting Room of the SENTINEL office.

NUMBERS of the DAILY SERTINEL containing a full list of the names of persons lost by the Lady Elgn disaster, can be obtained at our counter. DAILY, TRI-WEEKLY & WEEKLY

MONDAY MORNING, DEC. 24, 1860.

RUFUS KING, EDITOR.

Judge Howe at Ripon. We publish this morning the able and elaborate speech delivered at Ripon by the Hon. T. O. Hows, of Green Bay, on the Fugitive Slave Law. The views advanced by the Judge are novel, and the arguments and illustrations with which he enforces them cannot be easily answered. We need not tell the people of Wisconsin who and what Judge Hownis; but for the information of others it is proper to say, that he is one of the ablest jurists, most conservative politicians and truest men in this State. His opinions carry weight wherever he is known; and though we do not expect that all will concur in the views expressed by him touching the Fugitive Slave Law, few, we think, will deny the fairness, ability and patriotic apirit which he brings to the discussion of the subject.

The Fugitive Act of 1850.

WHAT ARE OUR CONSTITU-TIONAL OBLIGATIONS?

SPEECH OF HON, T. O. HOWE, Before a Convention of the People of Fond du Lac, Green Laks and Winneba-go Countles, held at Ripon, December 12, 1852.

CORRESPONDENCE.

RIPON, Wis., Dec. 13th, 1860. Hon Timoths O. Howe: DEAR SIR: The undersigned were charged by the Convention which listened to your address, lest evening, in this place, with the duty of soliciting the publication thereof. Believing, as we do, that the general cir-culation and perusal of that address will tend to the enlightenment of the people upon a subject of general interest, we beg of you, a snopect of general interest, we need of your that you will permit the publication of your address, in such newspaper as you may desire. We are, Sir,

Very respectfully yours.

EDWARD DANIELS,

L. H. D. CRANE.

Madison, Dec. 18, '60. Gentlemen: - Herewith I hand you a copy of the speech I delivered at Ripon on the evening of the 14th inst. If its publication will do anything to disseminate juster views of our rights and of our duties under the Constitution, I am quite willing it should

You ask me for an expression of my views upon the Act of Congress of Sept. 18th, 1850, concerning the rendition of fugitive slaves. I cannot refuse to comply with such an invitation.

Yet I am not unmindful of the considerations which are supposed to render such a discussion at the present time somewhat difficult and embarrassing. I know the National Republican party, to which I belong, has not yet expressly condemned that act. I know that many prominent members of

Under the filt section he may come him.

by an exultant majority of morethan 20,000 mense same are lost by one accident or another. But it is said the country is alarmed, and therefore this is no time to agitate; that the Union is in danger and therefore this is no time to urge extreme opinions. I know the country is alarmed and I do not mean to agitate. I know the Union is in danger and I do not mean to agitate. I know the Union is in danger and I do not mean to agitate. I know the Union is in danger and I do not mean to agitate. I know the Union is in danger and I do not mean to agitate in the country is alarmed. ngitate. I know the Union is in danger and I do not mean to urge extreme ophinons.—
In fact I have none to urge. This Union ment ought long since to have supplied.—
But I do not learn that the government is at a flouble peril; by Southern aggression and double peril; by Southern aggression and by Northern acquiescence. But from both the past season, and in consequence are in

WHAT IS MEANT BY THE UNION

What do we mean when we speak of the Union? I, myself, understand by it that compact between the people of thirty-three States which constitutes the government of the United States. By the terms of that compact, the people of the United States, at lated partials in accordance with prescribed stated periods, in accordance with prescrib stated periods, in accordance with prescribed forms, appoint extrain agents to do their bidding, and to execute their will. One of these agents is called a President, another a Congress, and a third a Judiciary. Each is designed to be in its own aphere but the exponent of Public Opinion. And thus the American Union is but the chosen instrumentality by which the opinion of the American Pacole is accorded in public affects. American People is executed in public af-

THE GOVERNMENT AND PUBLIC OPINION. It is true to its mission only when it faith-ully reflects that opinion. But it is the relief true to its mission only when triathfully reliefs that opinion. But it is the opinion of the people, and not their mere whim or caprice, which should find expression in government. The matured thought, the deliberate judgment of the people alone is suited to guide their Representatives, whether in one department or the other.—But to do the people's will, the government requires to know!

white, therefore, the government owes to the people obedience to their will, when known, the people owethe government wise deliberation upon, and honest expression of their opinions and purposes. Freedom of speech, and freedom of the press, is necessary to wise deliberation. Accordingly such of a frank and bold interance of their con-victions and views upon the impolicy and injustice of human stavery. Even in the national capitol, in the American Senate House, I am told, a representative of the people has been struck down for words spokn in debate, and spoken too, in strict accordance with the parliamentary law. While the sacred right of free speech is thus assail-ed, in the center, and one extreme of the ed, in the center, and one extreme of the nation, it behaves us to defend it have.

The freedom of the nation cannot survive the freedom of the national mind. And if it be said the whole subject of slavery cannot be discussed without danger to the Union, I reply that if free speech is stilled upon any one subject, the Union is already absolutely and inevitably lost. I think, therefore, we and inevitably lost. I think, the tolde, we can discuss the Fugitive Slave law to-day without detriment to the Republican party; without danger to the Federal Union.

I would not be willing to disturb the Union, for I like it. I worship the Union

Every wise government will recognize gennine scruples of conscience; no humane goverument will trample upon them. The laws of most States denounce the penalty of death against those who commit the crime of murder. There are those who profess to have

The Addort must state that the P. Lea given. They have been constant and steadiast in the assertion of that heatility. Infidelity to it, they have emancipated all the slaves they ever possessed. To give effective expression to it, you have seen within the last six years, two great parties laid upon the sacrificial altar. Yet, in utter contempt of all this profession, in reckless defiance of all this profession, in reckless defiance of all this conviction, in bold decision of all of all this profession, in reckless defiance of all this conviction, in bold decision of all this sacrifice, we have to-day upon the statute book an act which commands you, and all the good citizens of the emancipated States, to sid and assist in the prompt rendition of a nightive slave to his former condition of hopeless, joyless, payless servitede.

Now I am happy to know there are men among us who cannot render a cheerful obe-

Is that to be wondered at? You know there are men whose sensibilities are so refined they cannot act as hangmen even. They feel a sort of repugnance to sending a man from life you, not as a lawyer, but as a man, not on to death. But the law we are considering respects no such scruples. Its sidering respects no such scruples. Its command is peremptory and universal:—

"All good citizens are hereby commanded to aid and assist in the prompt and efficient execution of this law" is the language of the act. But they tell us that it is the legal right of the master to possess his slave, and that it is our legal duty to return him.—

But from both the past season, and in consequence are in these parils I say the Union can and ought danger of actual starvation; but I do not the past season, and in consequence are in danger of actual starvation; but I do not learn that the government is at all disturbed. It is not, then, the magnitude of the loss which musters the country to restore a fugitive nearo. Is it, then, because this peouliar species of property is more liable to decory destruction, or departure than another, that the government demands greater vigitance for its protection? But saw-mills and many other kinds of property are deemed "extra hexardous" by the insurance companies. Yet the government has never seen fit to issue policies upon such property. Negroes, then, are not the most valuable and not the most risky property there is; yet to enable the master to recover the negro when lost, here is an enactment which is without a parallel in the history of legislation. It bristles with fines and panalties from its beginning to its end.

ginning to its end. NO PUGINITE HORSE LAW.

The State of Virginia, it is said, raises some very fine negroes. She raises, I know, some very fine blooded horses. The best of her negroes, I suppose, are not worth more than two thousands dollars each. The best of her horses, I suppose, are not worth less than five thousand dollars. Both are liable than five thousand dollars. Both are liable to secape and get into Pennsylvania. The legal title is not destroyed by the escape of either. In the case of the horse it is preserved by the common law which exists in Pennsylvania as well as in Virginia, and which everywhere recognizes the horse to be the legitimate subject of ownership. In the case of the negro the title is preserved by the Constitution. To recover the horse to be the legitimate subject of ownership. In the case of the negro the title is preserved by the Constitution. To recover the horse the government of the United States provides no remedy whatever. of our citizens who profess to have conscientions soruples against bearing arms in defence of their country from a foreign enemy. They have been constant and steadfast in the assertion of such scruples, and therefore all States believe in such soruples and respect them. Everywhere, those who profess them are exempted from the duty of bearing arms. Now the great body of the people in the free States profess to be opposed to the institution of Slavery. Yet it suits the purpose of champions of that institution to affect profound and utter distrust of all those professions. They denounce them as hypocritical; they ridicule them as sham.

But then I must be ratified, not only of the competency, but of the sufficiency of the proof. Now is there not some mistake about this business, or may there not be? Then I button up my coat and proceed with the source of the South with it, without the came of the South with it, without the same of the South with it, without the about this business, or may there not be. Then I button up my coat and proceed with the closing argument; what the lawyers call the "final summing up." The said cificed and his assistants, while so employed, to receive the same compensation, and to be allowed the same expenses as are now allowed by law for transportation of criminals, to be certified by the Judge of the district within which the arrest is made, and paid out of the treasury of the United States. And then Marshal Lewis starts for tional Republican party, to which I belong, has not yet expressly condemned that act. I know that many prominent members of that party, both in and out of this State, have even defended it. It is sufficient to say that I do not intend to attack those gentiemen, or that party. Neither the one or the other is respossible for the views I may advance to night.

The discussion I propose is not disloyal to that party, because, while I admit it has never approved by I have even desired. The discussion I propose is not disloyal to the party of the United States. And then Misrahal Lewis starts for Georgia with the Vice-President of the United States. And then Misrahal Lewis starts for the duty more solemn, than the right of a State to be defended to be a negro. In the second place he is, I know myself, a very dark colored man.—

That all sounds very fine, I reply. But the may have his question of his right to these fugitive slave cases are risky eases.—

Among those whem the exigency of party to encount of the passion of party have hurled into the support of the law we are considering, was Mr. Webster. I will quote to you a passage from a speech in defence of the law, made by him at the city of Buffalo, on the 22d of May, 1851:

"The law of 1850 passed. Now I understance and a lawyer, and on my professional take as a lawyer, and on my professional take as a lawyer, and on my professional takes as a lawyer, and on my professional takes as a lawyer, and on the cost of the state as a lawyer, and to all, that the close of the law commands you, Mr. Is the may have his question of his right to freedom determined by a jury and upon legal freedom determined by a jury and upon le

If you are waits that a State which has nothing to gain by desiding in favor of the negro, but can be had in a State which makes his full value fied, you must give me the certificate, and by deciding against him. That is appealing from a disinterested umpire to one interested to the whole extent of the controversy. Do you tell me that the North confesses to a deep prejudice against slavery, and is, there-make an affidavit that I am apprehensive of a reacus. I would not hesitate to make such an affidavit, because under such circumstances I really should anticipate a rescue, before I could get him out of Ripon.—

I would then request the Marshal to deliver the Vice President to my client in the State of Georgia, and I read him the 9th section of the Act, as follows:

Sec. 0. And be it further enacted, that upon affidavit made by the claimant of such fugitive, his agent or atterney, after such fugitive, his agent or atterney, after such factions for the remove temperate in debate, coolthe South are more temperate in debate, coo er in deliberation, more conscientious in decision than citizens of the North? That is your glory, not your change, I know if you were sworn your chame. upon a jury, impanneled to try and deter-mine whether any human being was bond or mine whether any human being was bond or free, you would hate to return a verdict of bond; but I know, also, that if the proofs convinced you of the last, you would, upon your oaths, so say. You would not commit perjury to save yourself, much less another, from fetters.

Your lives you can afford to sacrifice for Your lives you can afford to sacrifice for freedom; your souls you cannot afford to sacrifice either for your own liberty, or that of others. I repeat, the statute is a libel upon the character of the North. It is more than remdeliam angulate which the statute of Richard II. was directed. It is more than a represent uitered against a class of pollulation is a supportions dischard much of nobles—it is a stupendous falsebood, published against eighteen great Common Do you desire your statute books shall in-

What hope of escape do you see for Mr. Hamlin? I tell you, if old "black Dan" himself were alive and in Wisconsin, ufactured by him, (either can be obtained, you know, without difficulty, for the miscreants are not all hung yet,) testifying that all who hold slaves are of necessity or whatever his name might be, had lost a negro by the name and of the description given in the letter of attorney.

All next step would be to obtain the appointment of a convenient commissioner.
For that purpose I would inquire out the meanest and most sordid wretch you have in this community, and I take it you have some men pretty mean here—though how a mean man oan get into such a negrotian statistics.

It is not every the express terms of all the ocntitutions that all who hold slaves are of necessity great villains; but I do mean the whole institution had its origin in great and most villating an engine against which honesty can make no defence.

The Constitution declares that no person "ahali he deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law." arise under that law, you ask the Court to reverse its decision; and that you take measures, if you are interested in it, to have it argued before that Court, and not suffer it to go by default.
And, secondly, for fear the court will not reverse that decision, while constituted as it s now, I advise you to reconstruct that court just as soon as the Almighty, the Feople, and the Constitution will enable you to do it. But what shall be done with that case in which judgment has been already pronounced? That question you know I have snawered on other occasions and nuder other auspices. I repeat it here simply to protect myself against the charge of inconsistency. The judgment must stand as the end of the law in that case.

Do you tell me it is a great hardship that a judgment should stand which pronounces and a year a say to have been considering to such an act as we have been considering to such an act as we have been considering to be constitutional? I know it very well. It is a hardship that any untruth should be affirmed, or any injustice be done by any tribunal, or any person. But God's living truth is, the authority to decide what truth and justice is, in any disputed case, must reside somewhere. We have agreed to refer what the truth and justice of the Federal Constitution is, to the Federal Courts. They may abuse that authority. My deliberate Constitution is, to the Federal Courts. They may abuse that authority. My deliberate judgment is that in two fiagrant cases they have abused it. The truth and justice of a charge of murder must be submitted to some tribunal for decision. Wherever placed, the power may be misused. Often it has been many an innocent victim has suffered death from the misuse of the power; but you have never revoked the power, and never will until you can find some letter repository of it than you have in a jury or twelve good and lawful men.

I have thus executed the commission you I have thus executed the commission you gave me. I have submitted to you, as briefly as I could, my views upon the Fugitive Slave Act of 1850. And here I might, properly, perhaps, dismiss the subject, and reliere your patience. But I will venture to add a few suggestions upon the practical question—What shall we do in reference to that law? It is already upon our books; how shall we counteract it? I heard a gentleman, some weeks since, commenting upon theman, some weeks since, commenting upon the discordant state of feeling existing be-tween the Northern and Southern portions of the Union, and he remarked, that the South had great cause of complaint against the North, for not executing the Fugitive Slave Law. I knew him very well. I knew that his manhood had survived his attachment to the Democratic party, and I asked him to let me tell him what sort of a law that was which he thought the North was so much to blame for not executing.

Accordingly I proceeded to exhibit to him some of the ruot obnoxious features of the act, but before I had concluded, he interrupted me with the exclamation—"but that is all wrong; the law ought to be amended."

I think the law ought to be smended .--But then I am not radical in my views Only one single amendment is needed to satisfy

It yet remains for me to show that the act is an infraction of the fundamental law. I am not sure but it is the general unit of the negro believes he is of right free, he derstanding of the country. But I am very sure the master needs no such provision; and I may thing, to the weight of my hostility to it. I conclude, therefore, if we are I wish new to do what I can have a constitution demands.

which we have for recovering our own moveable property.

When a horse escapes from Virginia and goes into Pennsylvania, the law gives the owner the right to pursus him, and if he can, to retake him. If the owner finds him at large and he is a gentle and amiable horse, he will probably be able to retake him without assistance. But if, on the contary, he is wild and skittish, and flies from his pursuer, the government supplies ne aid to corner or to catch him. If he is vicious and kicks or bites, the government supplies no help to subdue him. Whatever assistance he has in either case he must negotiate for, and pay for. If he cannot employ help enough ead him home as he would the horse. If the slave is scary and runs, or is vicifights, let the owner employ help to capture and subdue him. If he has not the force to recover him and cannot employ it, then let the negro go as he would have had to let Cruiser go if he had ever been at large. But while the contest is between the master and the slave, let the Government be neutral, as it is between the owner and the horse. But if any citizen, regardless of his duties under the Constitution, shall interfere to prevent the re-capture of the negro, then let the owner treat such interference as a conversion and ane the wrong door for his value, or let him replevin the negro as he would replevin the horse.

Do you say the negro is intelligent, and

Do you say the negro is intelligent, and therefore extraordinary means are required to circumvent him? Do you say he has a strong will, and therefore great force is required to subdue him?

These are very good reasons why capitalists should not invest their money in such property, but no reasons at all why you and I should be made to stand guard over such property. The greater the difficulty of pro-I should be made to stand guard over such property. The greater the difficulty of protecting any particular species of property, the greater the hardship of imposing that burthen upon any but the owner. If the law will not compel us to catch, to guard and return mules when they escape from a Southern owner, why should the law compel us to catch, to guard and return zebras, if the South should acquire a fancy for such stock and they should escap:? Do you say if the owner of a negro is turn Do you say if the owner of a negro is turned over to a suit for damages, or an action of replevin, that all such cases must be submitted to the determination of a jury? I reply, so they ought to be in case of dispute. In case of dispute, you cannot recover ten dellars in money, a pair of yearling calves, nor a last spring's pig, without submitting the issue to the determination of a jury.

Do you say that Northern juries cannot be trusted with the determination of such issues? I have already rejuted that calumny. anes? I have already refuted that calumny and I say again, if the government will de-mand of the people of the North no more than the Constitution authorizes them to re-quire, we will not only render a prompt abulience oursaires but we will enforce the dience to all such demands, upon the South as well as upon the North.

Does any one object to this rendering of the Constitution that while it places the ne gro show before the law upon the same footing as other property, it also leaves him as helpless as property? That is by no means the case. But, on the contrary, if there be no act of Congress suspending the writ of Habeas Corpus, the negro will have the same reception from that rath and the same remember. protection from that writ, and the same remedies for every restraint upon his liberty that any white man has.

THE NEW AMERICAN WATCH: Made at Waltham, Mass.

IN ORDER TO MEET THE REQUIBE-MENTS of gentlemen who preter a thinner watch than those usually made by us, we have latesteamed a new style of Watch on the three-quar terplate model, papecially designed for this purpose. In establishing this new series, it has also been an extunuishing this new ferres, it has also been over design to preduce a Watch in every way superior to the best and highest priced products of the most reputable of English and Swiss manufacturers; and no labor or expense has been spared to this end. n all respects of fine and durable material, o an all respects of the and unracte meteral, of external and internal finish, of accurate compensa-tion and adjustment, of mathematically just proportions, and of practical results, our new three quarter plate Watch challenges comparison with quarier plate Waten constitutions any in the world.

The following named gent temen may be referred to in relation to these Watches:

Hon. Hannibal Hamlin, Me. John G. Baxe, Vermont, N. P. Willis, New York, Hon. N. P. Banks, Mass. Frank Leslie,

West H. Cary, N. York, Rorace Greeley, Prank Lealie, Cyrus W. Fleid, New York, Wm. H. Cary, N. York, Paul Morphy, New Orleans, Norman Wiard, Wis.
Dr. J. Marion Sims, Prof. Bartlett, West Pt.

Caution.—As our Waten is now extensively counterfaced by faceling manufacturers, we have to counterfeited by foreign manufacturers, we have to Inform the public that no watch is of our produc inform the public that no watch is of our production which is unaccompanied by a certificate of gen-ulating the number of the watch, and signed by our Treaturer, R. B. Bobbins, or by our predecedeers, Appleton, Tracy & Co.

As these watches are for sale by jewelers generally throughout the Union, the American Watch Con any do not solicit orders for single watches. ROBBINS & APPLETON, REPORTED BY THE N. Y. ASSOCIATED PRESS FOR THE DAILY SENTINEL.

Washington Matters. WASHINGTON, Dec. 21. WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.
The Select Committee of the Senate on the crisis, met to-day, and had a free interchange of opinion, during which Mr. Douglas said that he was ready now to unite in recommending such amendments to the Constitution, as would take the slavery question out of Congress. In view of the question out of Congress. In view of the dangers which threaten the Republic with disunion, revolution and civil war, he was prepared to act on the matters in the controversy, without regard to his previous action, as if he had never made speeches, or given a vote on the subject.

Senstor Bigler, who is on the committee, has been for some days maturing a plan, by which the slavery question, by amendments to the Constitution, may be removed altogether from Congressional control. It meets the approbation of distinguished gentlemen.

Lieuts. Dozler and Hamilton, and several active midshipmen, natives of South Carolina, have resigned their commissions in the United States Navy.

The Sanate has confirmed the nominations of Geo. W. Heard, as Secretary of Legation

The Senate has confirmed the nominations of Geo. W. Hoard, as Secretary of Legation to China, and E. D. Chandler as Marshal to Consular Court at Bangkok, Spain.

Washington, Dec. 22—3 P. M.
The matter of the Commonwealth of Kentucky by the Governor and Executive authority thereof, against the Governor of the State of Chio, was taken up by the Supreme Court to-day. Mr. Monroe having received the petition and exhibits, and having moved the Court for a writ of mandamus, or for a rule to show cause pursuant to the terms of said petition. Matters at the South.

BALTIMORE, Dec. 21-3 P. M. South Carolina's Secession produced not the slightest sensation here, one way or the other. People seemed relieved and cheer-ful, and the streets were crowded and busiful, and the streets were crowded and business better.

The prevailing sentiment seems to be that if the North now does right, and makes honorable, manly concessions, and will repeal the obnoxious laws, the other Southern States will cheerfully meet them.
